NEW, DYNAMIC, POSITIVE MEASURES
REQUIRED TODAY TO STRENGTHEN WILL OF EUROPEANS TO RESIST AGGRESSION

This is The Strongly Expressed Opinion of Government Leaders, Statesmen, Defense Strategists and High Ranking Diplomats — Quick Action is Needed To Overcome the Defeatist Attitude.

Measures that can be taken to end defeatism in Western Europe are described in the following article. It is the seventh and last in a series by International News Service European General Manager Kingsbury Smith on the subject "Will Western Europe Fight?"

New dynamic, positive measures are required today to strengthen the will of the people of western Europe to resist aggression.

This was the definite, strongly expressed opinion of government leaders, statesmen, western defense strategists, military commanders and high ranking diplomats interviewed in the course of a month-long visit to eight European countries.

Belief that something must be done quickly to overcome defeatism was based on the conviction of most of those consulted that the answer to the question "Will Western Europe Fight?" If war comes suddenly is negative at present insofar as France, Holland, Belgium, Western Germany and Austria are concerned.

One well-known top level American diplomat in Paris told the writer:

"The French would fight stubbornly and courageously if they were well-equipped and had some hope of standing off the invader. A soldier will die to save his country, but if he thinks his country cannot be saved, he is not likely to put up much of a fight."

Count Carlo Sforza, Italian Foreign Minister, told this correspondent in Rome that steps must be taken to check a neutrality trend among the people.

"There is," he said, "No place in Europe today for neutrality."

Mayor Ernst Reuter of West Berlin expressed the same view to the writer.

"We must get this idea of neutrality out of the minds of the people," Reuter said. "It must be made clear to the people that anyone who is neutral will be overcome; that it is not possible for any man who loves freedom and wishes to live as a human being to think of remaining neutral against Soviet aggression."

West German Federal Chancellor Konrad Adenauer also warned that the people of Western Germany are unlikely to offer any resistance to a Soviet attack unless they are given assurances that the western powers are willing to do something concrete about their security.

"It is not enough to tell the German people that the presence of a few American soldiers on German soil means security," Adenauer added. "The western powers should give the German people a more definite and clear statement of intentions in respect to the security of western Germany."

In advocating establishment of a psychological defense branch of the Atlantic Pact, some western European defense chiefs said they felt such an organization could serve the following purposes:

1—Encourage the will to resist of the Western European people by explaining to them that the defense of Western Europe is not a hopeless problem; pointing out, for example, that there is believed to be a reasonably good chance that a Soviet attack could be broken up by the use of atom weapons for tactical air purposes;

2—Release more information concerning the Atlantic Pact defense system without revealing any top military secrets.

3—Explain to the Western European people, and especially

ENLISTED NAVY MAN KILLED IN FALL
FROM PLANE 1,000 FEET IN AIR
FLYING OVER BENSALAM TOWNSHIP

JOHNSVILLE, May 15—Plunging from an airplane 1,000 feet in the air, a Navy enlisted man dropped to his death from a small plane here late Saturday. The body of George W. Wilson, Jr., 24, a yeoman stationed at the Naval Air Material Center, here, was found in a cow pasture near Richellee and Gallop roads, Bensalem township.

The plane, a biplane with two open cockpits, was being piloted by John S. Cantwell, 27, of Lacey Park, Hatherso, an aviation mechanic also stationed at Johnsville.

Cantwell, who was in the back cockpit, said the safety straps from the front cockpit suddenly began snapping against his windshield. Then he saw Wilson go over the side.

Cantwell told investigators that he rented the plane about 2 p. m. at Warrington Airport after inviting Wilson along for a ride. They flew over the city for a time, he said, and were over Shibe Park in time to watch workmen cover the field with canvas after the game between the Phillies and New York.

Then they proceeded to Buehl Field, Eddington, where he landed the plane and remained for a short time. Cantwell said he checked the safety straps himself after Wilson had crawled into the front cockpit before they took off again.

He was moving along at about 1,000 feet, traveling at a moderate rate of speed, and the air was calm, Cantwell said, when the accident occurred.

After he saw Wilson fall, Cantwell circled the spot so that he could remember the location and then he flew to Johnsville where he landed the Stearnman biplane.

Cantwell told Navy officials what had happened and notified state police at Langhorne. An ambulance manned by Franklin L. Phillips and Robert Hoag, set out for the scene. Cantwell accompanied them.

Wilson, a native of Providence, R. I., was found in the pasture of the Hillcrest Dairies. He was pronounced dead in Nazareth Hospital.

Cantwell, a veteran of eight years in the Navy, holds a private pilot's license.

It's YOUR Future: Vote!

Tomorrow's Republican Primary will cut the pattern for many years to come. It will determine what sort of government you will have in your state, and it will decide what kind of representation you will have in the United States Senate.

Policies of the state and national governments affect every moment of your lives. They make the difference between happiness and unhappiness, between prosperity and hard times, between good jobs and poor ones.

The cross-pull in the Republican Party has come to a showdown. The choice tomorrow is between those who stand by the sound, historic principles of Republicanism, and will work for good government for the present and the future; and those who want to join the New Deal with its giveaways, soaring debts and "after us the deluge" philosophy.

If the Duff-Fine ticket wins tomorrow, it will make very little difference in the long run whether the Democrats or Republicans win next fall. The Duff-Fine philosophy is cut from the same cloth as the Truman-Myers philosophy. The Republican philosophy will be dead, and we will have two political parties tied to the same socialist concepts.

Wednesday will be too late to rescue the inspired policies put into effect under Abraham Lincoln, upon which all the real growth, expansion and prosperity of the United States were founded.

Tomorrow is your last chance! Unless you are willing to drift indifferently into disaster, tomorrow is the day you must do something about it.

Tear out this following list of names, take it to the polls with you, and when you get your Republican ballot, put an "X" after each of the names, thus:

For Senator
JOHN C. KUNKEL	X
For Governor
JAY COOKE	X
For Lieut. Governor
GEORGE N. WADE	X
For Sec'y Int. Affair
JOSEPH M. STACK	X
For Supreme Court
WILLIAM I. TROUTMAN	X
For Superior Court
NOCHEM S. WINNET	X

Their matching head-pieces had veils which were likewise the same color tone as their gowns. The maid of honor wore gold toned slippers, and those worn by the other three were silver. Their colonial style bouquets were formed of carnations in colors to contrast with the costumes.

The bridal gown was of white satin, the court train and skirt being edged in dainty lace. Rows of lace was also used effectively for two panels down the back of the

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kierman
(Distributed by International News Service)

Thousands of Mothers are recovering today from the shock of special one-day consideration . . . a few days at the wash tubs and they'll be back to normal.

But Mothers' Day has come to have such meaning that many families are seriously considering giving her two days off a year.

This would be in lieu of regular vacation, guaranteed annual wage or pension plan and is not to be considered as setting a precedent for additional time off.

Reuther just got a $100-a-month pensions for his members and is now working on $200 . . . with the usual advice from the audience, "watch out for the jackpot question!"

But he says that hundred dollar pension is "just opening the door" to pension possibilities . . . it should be real interesting when he gets it wide open.

The last time we got the door open we couldn't get it closed again.

ACCUSED BY THE GUILTY

Psychiatrists have long noted a tendency of people to accuse others of thoughts and acts they themselves are guilty of. This is an unconscious process. The man who always suspects others of, say, lewd thoughts or acts, "proves" to himself that he cannot be guilty of such desires.

But it has remained for the communists to parallel this unconscious process with a deliberate and calculated technique of accusing the innocent of acts they themselves are flagrantly guilty of.

A Moscow newspaper has just accused the United States and the West of plundering Berlin by smuggling goods out of that city in sealed trains. The charge is obviously absurd. The United States has been shipping billions of dollars' worth of goods into Europe, including Germany. During the airlift alone the West shipped more than 2,000,000 tons of supplies into Berlin. The United States has been reconstructing, not looting.

Russia's record is equally clear, even though the Soviet Union has been careful not to reveal the exact figures. All limits on methods and amount of reparations agreed on at Potsdam and elsewhere have been flouted by Russia. Even today it is impossible to conclude peace treaties on Germany and Austria because Russia demands the right to continue looting under various pretexts.

This latest Russian accusation is like all the others. It tells nothing believable about the accused. But it throws considerable light on what the Russians do—and plan to do.

NON-RED AFFIDAVITS

The Taft-Hartley Law denies unions the services of the National Labor Relations Board unless their officers have sworn to non-communist affidavits. This feature of the law has now been upheld by the United States Supreme Court. Only one member of the court, Justice Black, was flatly opposed.

The majority held, in effect, that Congress did not ban beliefs, speech, or associations, but merely laid down requirements which unions must meet in order to avail themselves of the services of the NLRB. Communists now holding union office may remain communists. They may remain union officials unless the unions reject NLRB's services, all at once. That makes sense.

It is too bad, of course, that loyalty oaths and communist bans should be necessary. It was not always thus. There was a period in this country when persons appointed to government posts were loyal Americans and there was no doubt about it. In fact, no so-called political party which is in effect nothing but a fifth column for a foreign nation operated in this country in those days.

A California politician says he is announcing his candidacy for office with enthusiasm, hoping, of course, it spreads among the voters.

The Ball Manufacturing Company, which acquired the property at the corner of Dorrance street and the railroad, formerly occupied by Edward Peirce, has about completed the addition and alterations necessary for the manufacturing of golf balls. . . . Five dozen balls were recently made as a trial, and have since been used on the Torresdale links, and it is claimed that they are of a superior order and give first-class satisfaction.

Councilman William Allen, of the second ward, and Milton Potter, formerly a clerk in Scott's grocery, have obtained positions at the local freight office of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The former will act as an assistant to William Joyce while the latter will succeed William Bell in the clerical department. Bell succeeds to the position lately occupied by Chester Stover, which the latter resigned.

Since the conquest at Trenton, Bristol has played but one game and that was on Saturday night when the little band of lightning basketball artists took the big New York Giants into camp. A dynamo and boilers are being

It is intended to run the street cars with electricity which are now drawn between Bristol and the Nexus property, near Croydon, by horses. As it will probably be some time before the litigation which has been incurred incident to closing the gap in the road is ended, the temporary power house will be used to operate this end of the road.

Kendrick & Roberts, of Philadelphia, were awarded the contract last week for the building of the big addition to the mill of William H. Grundy & Co. The contract price is about $40,000. Work was commenced yesterday and it is calculated to have the building done in February. The structure will be a three-story absolutely fire-proof building.

Harry Ettenger, a Bristol boy who is employed as a machinist in Philadelphia, came up to Bristol on Thanksgiving Day in an automobile which he constructed himself. It is a neat looking vehicle and a great credit to Mr. Ettenger's ability as a constructing machinist.

Hon. I. Newton Evans, M. D., of Hattboro, died suddenly from heart disease at his home Tuesday afternoon. . . .

Three locomotives of the Pennsylvania Railroad were in a wreck on a siding last night at Morrisville, and as a result two employees are in the McKinley Hospital (Trenton) in a precarious condition. At the scene of the wreck the company is carrying on extensive operations in the straightening of the tracks and in making an approach for the bridge across the Delaware river. . . .

The injured are: William Mullen, engineer, of Morrisville, broken leg and internal injuries; Charles Dunagan, cranesman, of Morrisville, scalded from hips down and body injuries; J. O'Donnell, helper, skull crushed, right arm broken, injured internally. . . .

Fine is Gov. Duff's Hand Picked Candidate, Says Malone in Broadcast

Since then, widows and veterans with families to support have been fired because they are supporting Jay Cooke. The hardships created by their dismissals shall forever be a blot on the records of Jim Duff and John Fine. They have made innocent children suffer.

Since then what issues has Jim Duff campaigned on?

Have you heard him discuss national issues?

Has he given his position on the Taft-Hartley Law — the Brannen Plan — the fiscal policy of our national government — foreign affairs — social security — the Hoover Plan of reorganization — and the many other important national problems?

No he has not. He has carried on a campaign of personal abuse against his benefactor, Senator Grundy and what he terms "Grundyism". Let's take a look at that: Senator Grundy has long been active in Republican politics in this State. He and Senator Martin made Jim Duff, in 1942. After Senator Martin was elected Governor, Jim Duff went to Senator Grundy to enlist his support to be appointed Attorney General in Governor Martin's cabinet. He got that support, and on the recommendation of Grundy, Martin appointed him.

At the many conferences four years ago, Duff was named the Republican candidate for Governor at a meeting at the Hershey Hotel. The meeting was attended by Senator Grundy, Senator Owlett, Senator Martin, Joseph Pew, and the late David Harris. Duff asked and received the political and financial support of these men.

Let me name them again: Grundy, Owlett, Martin, Pew and Harris. In both the primaries and the general election campaigns four years ago Duff was labeled "the candidate of Grundy and the reactionaries" by his opponents. They called him the same things he is calling Jay Cooke now. The only difference in the story is the persons who are telling it. Now, ladies and gentlemen, Duff and Fine would have you believe that if Jay Cooke is elected Governor, he would be controlled by Grundy and he would go back to the "dark ages". Do you know that Mr. Grundy is 87 years old? Now, just who, do you think, is an 87 year old man going to hurt? Who do Jim Duff and John Fine think they are kidding? No man ever had a more generous benefactor than Duff has had in Grundy. Everything he is or has been politically he owes to Grundy and Martin. Without them, he would still be a lawyer in Pittsburgh. Now ladies and gentlemen he is biting the hand that fed him and fed him well.

Why, he took Grundy support and money, and now beats his breast and cries out "they don't control me, but if you elect Jay Cooke they will control him!" Just how much ego can one man possess?

Now let's get to Duff and Fine. Duff has publicly stated that he does not want to run with Jay Cooke in November. He has called Cooke, and I quote, "a faker who doesn't give a damn about the people."

Let's see what sort of fellow Jay Cooke is. Jay Cooke is a successful businessman. He is a Purple Heart veteran of both World Wars. He was gassed in the first World War and wounded in the second World War. He entered the last war at the age of 44, eleven years older than Duff was in World War I. Let me read what a young G. I. had to say about Jay Cooke. He is Sgt. F. Nicholas Bianconi, of 1925 Seventh Avenue, Juniata, Altoona. He served with Cooke in the last War.

"I am the soldier in the ranks who was shot down with Colonel Cooke in that phase of the St. Lo breakthrough at St. Severo."

"When Colonel Cooke got his eye shot out and part of his face blasted away, I got it too. We were at the advance point of K Company, of the 3rd Battalion, 119th Infantry, 28th Division. I was platoon leader and my platoon was at the point. I was out in front of my men and Colonel Cooke was out in front of me."

"He was leading his men—all the way out in front, because he always took care of us. He had turned over the battalion to the second in command while he personally led the way. His leadership was an inspiration to all of us. He was always out front taking it right along with us."

"He actually caught the enemy fire which disclosed their emplaced positions to the outfit and which immediately gave us the whole picture. He went down in front of me with a hole in his face and shot through the leg."

"It was either the same burst or the next burst that got me, in both legs. When I crawled up to him I figured he was dead. He roused himself out of the shock and I realized he was alive. He started to give me instructions on what to tell the second in command on disposing our forces to meet the situation that the fire had disclosed. He couldn't talk very much at a time but when he got finished I had the whole picture and what he wanted done for the protection of our men and how to meet the situation."

"I was able to crawl back, dragging my legs, and got the message to battalion headquarters by runners. It took a long time to crawl back because the whole area was being swept by machine gun fire. About an hour and a half later the aide men were able to crawl up to Col. Cooke the first thing he asked was if the men of the command had been disposed properly so that the battalion was in good shape. He was told that they had.

"His first thought was always with his men and he was a Colonel who had their love and affection—he was a real officer and a real man and a real soldier."

"Jay Cooke is a born leader and we all knew it."

"That, ladies and gentlemen is a story about a man Duff says he doesn't want to run with. That, ladies and gentlemen is the man Jim Duff arrogantly called "a faker who doesn't give a damn about the people." I ask you, would you be willing to associate with Jay Cooke?

Now, let me tell you about a man who Mr. Fine will associate with. He is the political brains of the Duff-Fine ticket. He is John J. McClure, the political sgar of Delaware County. He runs one of the most corrupt political organizations in the country. He is a convicted bootlegger. At the time of his conviction he was the State Senator from Delaware County. After his conviction, some of his colleagues moved to expel him from the Senate. While that proceeding was going on a Pittsburgh newspaper wrote an editorial about him. Let me read it to you. The editorial appeared in the Pittsburgh Press on Sunday, February 17, 1935. It is entitled "A Burning Issue." It was written at the time when a resolution was introduced in the Senate of Pennsylvania calling upon Mr. McClure to resign as a member of that body after he had been convicted by a jury in federal court for violation of the National Prohibition Act. The editorial is as follows and I quote:

"Speakeasies, bawdy houses, gambling joints and liquor smugglers paid almost $3 million dollars for protection."

"One hundred and four witnesses took the stand and told of caravans of liquor moving at night under protection of law-enforcement officers; of prostitutes paying protection in order to ply their trade; of weekly lists of speakeasies which were to be raided because they had refused to 'kick in'; of threats and prosecutions and even one killing growing out of this nefarious business, and of wholesale corruption and bribery."

"For 44 days the United States Government piled up 2,000,000 words of testimony concerning a rum and vice ring almost without parallel in the political history of the United States."

"And at the head of this ring, according to the incalculable testimony of witness after witness, was a State Senator of Pennsylvania, the political dictator of his county and a power in the councils of the Republican Party."

"At the end of these 44 days of testimony, the State Senator made no denial of the charges."

"He was convicted and was sentenced to serve 18 months in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $10,000."

"The Delaware County ring of which Senator McClure was the head—as established in Federal Court and as confirmed by a jury verdict—was a definite, concrete, proven matter. And the Republican Party must tell the people of Pennsylvania whether or not it wants the leader of that ring to represent it in the Senate and to head the committee that must pass on all fiscal legislation."

"These are not my words, ladies and gentlemen. They are the words of an unbiased newspaper. They are not merely charges or accusations. They are founded on the court record of McClure's trial."

"If McClure were today an insignificant political figure, his support of Mr. Fine would probably mean nothing, but he is the same McClure today as he was then. His record is so unsavory that neither Governors Arthur H. James nor Edward Martin accepted his support nor did they recognize or associate with him during their administration. I regret to say that he has again risen to power under the present administration. To obtain the support of a man like McClure, the candidate who seeks that support must give value received. That is the way people of McClure's type do business. Duff and Fine have accepted his support. They have accepted his counsel and advice on political matters. Mr. Fine, in the event he is elected, will have to pay for that support."

"No form of vice is more destructive in its effect on a community than prostitution. No form of humanity is lower than men who will accept money from women in return for protection to engage in this vice. How can any man who aspires to high public office even tolerate the slightest association with men of this kind. Duff and Fine have accepted McClure's support. That they do not deny."

Jay Cooke and millions of other Americans fought to preserve the government of this country for its decent citizens."

Do we want to undo what they did by electing to public office men who will permit the likes of John McClure to influential places in our government?

The decision is in your hands.

skirt. Her fingertip veil of net was edged in lace, this being attached to a crown of brilliants and pearls. The colonial style bouquet was composed of white carnations, a lavender orchid centering it.

Men of the party were: Mr. James Robinson, Torresdale Manor, brother of the bridegroom, as best man; and Messrs. George and Frank Pizzullo, Jr., brothers of the bride, as ushers. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pizzullo, and her father gave her in marriage.

Music for the occasion was provided by vocalist Miss Yolande DeFelice, Lincoln avenue; and organist Miss Rita Clott, Wilson avenue.

Following a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pizzullo, 9th avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left for a motor trip to Niagara Falls, N. Y., and parts of Canada. The bride travelled in a navy blue suit with matching accessories, and wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet. Her topper was red. The two will live at 902 Warren street.

The bride, an employee of Kemline Metal Products Co., gave her attendants rhinestone crosses and chains. Mr. Robinson, a graduate of Palmer Business School, Philadelphia, gave the best man and ushers tie clasps. The bridegroom is a veteran of World War II, he having served in the Army Air Corps for four years. He was in the Pacific Theatre of Operations for a time.

Expert Clears Question On Salting Meat

When is a roast salted? This is a frequent question of new, as well as experienced home-makers, says Reba Staggs, well known meat cookery expert.

A beef, veal, pork or lamb roast may be salted before, during or after cooking, points out Miss Staggs. The time does not make any difference, as the salt will not penetrate to a depth of more than 1/2 inch.

However, when it comes to seasoning a broiled beef steak or lamb chops there is a definite time for salting. Broiled steaks and chops are first browned on one side, then seasoned. The meat is turned and the second side browned, then seasoned and the meat is ready for serving.

The reason for this is that steaks and chops for broiling have a comparatively large cut surface and salt tends to draw out the meat juices, thus retarding browning. For the same reason this procedure is also followed when panbroiling thinner cut steaks and chops.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Reaction To Mr. Hoover
Washington, May 15. AFTER two weeks, it is interesting to note that the reaction to Mr. Herbert Hoover's proposal that some way be found to reorganize the United Nations without the Communist states whose clear purpose is to reduce it to futility, has settled into a pattern, with Administration officials feeling they must deprecate the idea, though not violently, while public sentiment generally strongly favors it. Soon or late, the question Mr. Hoover raised is again going to become acute and has got to be answered.

THE official contention still is that with the Soviets excluded there would exist no genuine world forum for debate or contact, it would be, it is held, a "step backward" which would intensify the cold war and break down the only bridge across the chasm between the two hostile camps. On the other hand, according to members of Congress, the popular reception is overwhelmingly favorable. People, as a whole, are thoroughly fed up with the Russian United Nations recalcitrance and are convinced that the undoubted Soviet strategy is to make us waste our time, energy and money on an organization they are determined to see gets nowhere and does nothing. For five years they have been playing this game. It is a long while to be a nap. It is time to do something about it.

CERTAINLY, that is the general feeling throughout the country. As a matter of fact most officials who criticized the Hoover proposals feel he has performed a service by centering attention upon a situation that grows more intolerable every year and for the betterment of which there seems exceedingly slim hope. The only violent opposition came from a few individual and incurable "Hoover haters" such, for example, as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Others include some of our leading "liberal" columnists. Mrs. Roosevelt strained to try to picture Mr. Hoover as trying to plunge us into war, an "odd thing," she thought, "for a Quaker to do."

THIS, of course, was pretty low but no more vicious than the repetition in her recent book of the false and slanderous statements about Mr. Hoover and the Communist-inspired bonus march in Washington while he was President. After ex-Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley had sent Mrs. Roosevelt the undeniable facts flatly contradicting her account, she accepted them as authentic but characteristically failed to make any correction or express regret. As for the "liberal" columnists, their interpretation is that Mr. Hoover as an "Old Guard Republican politician" has now exhibited himself as leader of the isolationists. In view of Mr. Hoover's record, not only as a strong advocate of the United Nations but as one of the earliest and most earnest proponents of the old League of Nations, this is as silly as it is unworthy. It would seem inspired by personal animosity.

ACTUALLY, the best informed judgment now is that the Hoover speech has been the most helpful and wholesome made in this country for a long time. Instead of enfeebling bipartisan foreign policy, it is designed to invigorate it. Instead of weakening the United Nations, it seems the only way to rescue it from complete futility. Certainly, it has cleared the atmosphere of a great deal of false pretense and focused the light on a situation that cannot be tolerated indefinitely. It has shown up the Russian scuttling plans and made it plain that soon or late the United States must clamp down. There is abundant evidence that the Soviet leaders will not voluntarily give up their United Nations membership nor the veto which enables them to strangle it. At this time, as Mr. Hoover himself said, his proposal may not be practical, but it easily may serve a great purpose by convincing the Russians that our patience is pretty well exhausted and that we will not continue longer to permit them to play us for suckers.

REALIZATION of this, it is held, is why Mr. Stalin made possible the Moscow visit of Secretary General Trygve Lie, who hopes to find a way to end the cold war. It is also a reason for believing that at the September session of the United Nations the Soviet truculence will be diminished and their attitude less impossible. The truth is that exclusion from the United Nations is the last thing the Russians want. It would lose them a great propaganda advantage which they have skillfully exercised for five years. The Hoover proposal and its popularity has put them on a spot. Mr. Hoover is not a man to make impulsive, ill-considered suggestions; nor one to take a half-baked position. One would think that his great experience in national and international affairs, including the ten years of his life spent in Russia, would equip him to discuss the issues between the Soviets and ourselves at least as well as his critics. Most persons would say better.

COLUMBUS, O., — (INS)—Motor fatalities dropped 7.3 per cent in Ohio over the past year. Injury to pedestrians dropped 11.5 percent. But accidents involving youths under 15 years of age remained unchanged. Officials laid the blame in the latter case to an increase in the number of bicycles.

Miss M. Jean Curran Is Wed To Aldridge Everitt

The bride and maid of honor were gowned in attractive costumes of lace and marquisette on the occasion of the ceremony uniting Miss M. Jean Curran, 417 Jefferson avenue, and Mr. Aldridge Everitt, Middletown township, on Saturday.

The nuptials were solemnized at four p. m. in St. Mark's R. C. rectory, the Rev. Albert Glass being the officiating priest. The young woman who took her marriage vows is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Curran, and her father gave her in marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Everitt.

The bride was gowned in white, and her attendant, Miss Jacqueline Wooley, Lafayette street, in pink. Their costumes were patterned with bodices of lace; and floor length skirts were marquisette over taffeta. Each wore a horsehair picture hat to match her gown, with slippers of like tone in satin. The bride carried an arm bouquet of white snapdragons, carnations and roses. Miss Wooley's bouquet was of the same flowers in pink tone.

Mr. John Dougherty, Winder Village, was best man for Mr. Everitt. Miss Margaret Fallon, Corson street, the vocalist, sang several selections, her accompanist being Miss Katherine Keating.

The reception took place at the Curran residence.

Leaving for two weeks motor trip to Florida, Mrs. Everitt was costumed in a poudre blue dress, large natural straw hat, off-red coat, black accessories, and wore a Kollinsky necklace. She is a graduate of John W. Hallahan Catholic Girls high school, Phila. Her husband graduated from Langhorne-Middletown high school, and saw service with the U. S. Army in the European theatre of operations during World War II. Both are employees of Rohm & Haas Co. The two will reside with the bridegroom's parents.

"WILL WESTERN EUROPE FIGHT?"

New, Dynamic, Positive Measures Required Today To Strengthen Will of Europeans To Resist Aggression

to the workers, what a Soviet occupation of their homelands would mean to them individually:

4—Discourage Russia from risking war with the West by calling constant attention to the growing strength of the Western Europe defense system.

By such psychological measures as these, coupled with the creation of a common Atlantic Alliance Army, it is felt that the will of the people to resist aggression can be strengthened sufficiently to make Western Europe a bulwark against the westward spread of communism.

Many suggestions were made to International News Service as to what should be done to overcome this spirit of defeatism among the Western European people, and thus strengthen their will to resist in the event of war.

Outstanding were the following:

1—Common, composite Western European or Atlantic Alliance Army should be created at once to defend Western Europe;

2—German manpower and technical skill should be used in this Atlantic Alliance Army;

3—A special psychological defense branch of the Atlantic Pact security system should be established to encourage the Western European people to resist aggression, and to discourage Russia from resorting to war.

Covering the recent meeting of the Atlantic Pact defense chiefs at the Hague, this correspondent found almost unanimous agreement among the western military strategists on the need for creation of a common Atlantic Alliance Army composed of land and air forces from the Western European countries, at least.

One of the foremost advocates of this plan is General Hans Kruls, Netherlands Army General Staff Chief and chairman of the combined chiefs of staff of the Netherlands armed forces.

In an exclusive interview with INS, General Kruls said the creation of a Western European Union, or Atlantic Pact, army was the only sensible solution to the Western European defense problem.

He said the creation of such a common defense force would restore confidence among the people and strengthen their will to resist.

General Kruls further urged inclusion of "token" American Army and Air Force units in the proposed Western European union defense force.

He said the presence of American troops and airmen in this federal union army would have a tremendous psychological effect in encouraging the will to resist aggression.

The possibility of integrating American G. I.'s and non-commissioned officers in the ranks of a Western European army, at least for training purposes, also was brought to the attention of American Defense Secretary Louis Johnson during his visit to the Hague.

In connection with the question of the use of German manpower in the Western European security system, high ranking defense officials told the writer that the Atlantic Pact military strategists, including the French, are privately in agreement that this move is desirable and must eventually come.

These officials said they were convinced that the participation of German manpower in a composite Western European defense force would give the Western European people generally confidence that a defensive barrier could be developed.

However, it was agreed that the question of re-arming Germans, even as part of a Western European defense force, remains political dynamite, especially for the French government.

For that reason, the matter is being held in abeyance for the time being.

FOUND ASSOCIATION

TOKYO — (INS) — Thirty-three Catholics among the inmates of Tokyo's grim Sugamo prison, where Japanese war criminals are serving their terms, have founded a Catholic Action Association. The Catholic news service, Tosei, reported they had chosen St. Paul as patron and tutelary of their group "remembering that St. Paul too was a prisoner for years." Eight of the group were baptized during the Holy Week.
